It's Cheap Today

The cost of living is going down, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, but not so fast.

In New York City the general average of retail food prices decreased one per cent from April 15 to May 15, and during the year from May 15 to the following May 15, they decreased three per cent.

Pos and Milk Bargains

The housewife, however, may cut down the cost of living for her particular family much faster than this, if she will watch for the foods that have decreased in price and feature them in her menu.

Among the recent decreases in price, for example, are: canned peas, this recipe makes six waffles.
